

Church (All Saints) is a neat fabric, with a tower and five bells. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £7. 10s. 5d., and in 1835 at £191, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Val. Ellis, for whom the Rev. Wm. Syer officiates. The poor parishioners have nearly an acre of land let for 20s. a-year; and they ought to have a share of Vernon's Gift, as noticed with Great Wratting.

BRADLEY (GREAT), a scattered village, near a small rivulet, 6 miles N. of Haverhill, and 8 miles S. of Newmarket, has in its parish 2204 acres of land, and 544 souls. It had formerly a fair, on September 29th, and was anciently held by the Somerie family, barons Dudley. Lord Dacre is now lord of the manor and patron of the Church, (Saint Mary,) which is a neat structure, with a tower and three bells, and was new-pewed in 1841. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £17. 1s. 5½d., and in 1835 at £407, is enjoyed by the Rev. Wm. Parr Wilder, who has 52A. of glebe, and a yearly modus of £600, awarded in 1843. A large portion of the parish belongs to St. John's College, Cambridge, C. Lamprell, Esq., Mrs. Soame, Mr. D. R. Haylock, and several smaller proprietors. The present assessed yearly rental of the parish is £2242.

BRADLEY (LITTLE) is a small parish, 1 mile S. of Great Bradley, and 5½ miles N. by E. of Haverhill, containing only 33 inhabitants, and 957A. 3R. 24P. of fertile land, all the property of Wm. and Charles Lamprell, Esqrs., who have neat mansions here, and have nearly all the parish in their own occupation. They are also patrons of the Church (All Saints,) which has a round tower, and contains a curious monumental brass in memory of John Daye, the printer, who died in 1584, at Walden, in Essex. The living is a discharged rectory, valued in K.B. at £5. 0s. 10d., and now enjoyed by the Rev. Charles Lamprell, jun., who has a yearly modus of £250, awarded, in 1841, in lieu of tithes. DIRECTORY:—Charles Lamprell, Esq., Bradley Place; Wm. Lamprell, Esq., maltster, Hall; Richard Hayward, carpenter; and Thomas Smee, vict., Royal Oak.

CHEDBURGH, a pleasant village, near the source of a rivulet, 7½ miles S.W. of Bury, and 10 miles N.N.E. of Clare, has in its small parish 284 souls, and 508 acres of land. Two small portions belong to Mr. Thos. Green and Mr. Wm. Rutter, and the remainder to the Marquis of Bristol, who is lord of the manor, and patron of the Church (All Saints,) which has a spire steeple, and is a discharged rectory, valued in K.B. at £4. 2s. 8½d., and now having 28A. of glebe, and a yearly modus of £150, awarded in 1839. Until about seven years ago, it was united with Ickworth. The Rev. George Ingram is the present incumbent.

The poor parishioners have £4 a year from Sir Robert Drury's Charity, and a poor widow of Chedworth and Rede alternately, is entitled to be placed in the almshouse founded by him at Hawstead. (See page 669.) The donations of Henry and Oliver Sparrow, for the rector and poor, were laid out, in the 8th of James I., in the purchase of 3A. 2R. of land at Langham, now let for £3. 10s. a year, of which the rector retains two-thirds, and distributes the remainder among poor parishioners, together with a yearly rent-charge of 10s., left by Anthony Sparrow, out of a mill at Stanstead. In 1815, the Hon. Wm. HERVEY left £180. long annuities, to nine annuitants, in sums of £20 each, and after their decease, to his nephew, the Earl of Bristol (now Marquis of Bristol,) in trust, for any object of charity he might think proper. After the payment of legacy duty, this bequest was reduced to £162 a year, long annuities, which were afterwards sold, and the proceeds laid out in the purchase of £4185. 10s., three per cents. reduced annuities, now vested in trust, subject to the annuities payable to the surviving annuitants, for the education of such poor children of Chedburgh, Horningsheath, Ickworth, and the adjoining parishes, as the trustees think proper objects of charity, in the then schools of Chedburgh and Horningsheath, or elsewhere. In 1830, two of the nine annuitants were dead, and their shares had become available to this charity. The trustees in that year paid £16. 10s. for the teaching of 12 children in Chedburgh School, which was built at the expense of the Marquis of Bristol, and applied the remainder of the income towards the support of schools at Rede and Horningsheath.

CLARE, a small market town of great antiquity, with many neat houses, good inns, and well-stocked shops, is situated on a pleasant acclivity, on the north side of the river Stour, which separates it from Essex, 15 miles S.W. of Bury St. Edmund's, 8 miles E. of Haverhill, and 55½ miles N.N.E. of London. Its parish had 1170 inhabitants in 1811, and 1700 in 1841, and comprises 2178A. 3R. 35P. of fertile land, including Chilton, a hamlet of 150 souls, more than a mile N. of the town, and Chilton Hall, the seat and property of Mrs. Territt. Clare is celebrated for the remains of a castle and priory, and some of its female inhabitants are employed in the manufacture of Tuscan straw-plat. The streets, though spacious, are neither paved nor lighted; but they are well supplied with water, and the approaches to the town have been much improved during the last ten years, and the Market-place considerably enlarged by the removal of many unsightly buildings. The old Market Cross was taken down in 1838, and a handsome and commodious Corn Exchange, 64 feet long, and 36 broad, was erected by Mr. James Fenner, at the cost of £400, in the centre of the Market-place. The market, formerly held on Friday, is now held on Monday;
